There are extra pixels on template elements

Last Modified on 10/22/2025 3:02 pm EDT

The Outlook editor will leave small spaces on the sides of some elements as handles or grab-edges. These extra pixels may cause your email not to display perfectly within the editor—but, when sent, these handle pixels will not be displayed within the email.